BUSHWICK SHARED STUDENT HOUSE

NEIGHBORHOOD

This shared space is located in the up-and-coming neighborhood of Bushwick, in the northern part of Brooklyn, between the trendy neighborhoods of Williamsburg to the West and Bedford-Stuyvesant to the South. Historically a working-class neighborhood, Bushwick began gentrifying around the early 2000s when artists started looking for cheap, large industrial spaces there to use as studios. Now the area has become associated with colorful street art.

Bushwick has seen quite a bit of change in recent years. All kinds of creative types have been filing the neighborhood and as a consequence many businesses have opened to cater to them. The avenues have a lot of art galleries, boutiques, restaurants and bars, largely because of the proximity of the L train.

HOUSE LOCATION

The house is located in the heart of Bushwick (1277 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn 11221). Shared with students from other ESL schools as well as NYC locals, this co-living space has 17 rooms including three kitchens, a living room and co-working space, and a large backyard with tables and chairs.

You can find the following facilities close by:
- Pharmacy: 5-minute walk
- Convenience stores: a variety within a 1-minute walk
- Restaurants: a variety (Chinese, Italian, fast food) within a 5-minute walk

Transportation links:
- Closest subway stop: Wilson Av, 12-minute walk (L Train)
- Closest bus stop: Wilson Av/Putnam Av, less than a 2-minute walk (B60)
